Message from the Organizing Team

Mr. Dawood Al-Shezawi
Managing Director
Strategic Marketing & Exhibitions

The organizing team of Dubai International Wood & Wood Machinery Show, the region's premier destination for wood business, is pleased to announce that the 2009 edition of the show saw successful transactions with sales of over USD 79 million in closed deals by global companies who participated at the tradefair. The fourth edition of the show witnessed 30 per cent growth in terms of exhibitor participation and ended with an overall positive feedback from global, regional and local participants alike.

The event served as a launch pad for several new products, from exhibitors. A UAE based company, was one of the many companies, who scored gigantic deals within the event. The global delegations at the event also reported significant success. Many exhibitors have secured sizeable deals and are anticipating higher sales after the event. In addition to recognizing the show's effectiveness as a global platform for the development of the wood and woodworking industries, the majority of the exhibitors have confirmed their participation at next year's edition.

We would like to thank all our exhibitors from various countries who have chosen to showcase their latest technologies and innovation in wood and wood processing during this year's Dubai International Wood & Wood Machinery Show. The increase in the number of exhibitors and the staggering value of contracts closed within the three days of the show accentuates the importance of the show among global industry players and customers with excellent attendance of trade visitors and we are looking forward to generate another successful event next year.

Overview

Recognizing the changes in market needs, the impact of the current economy and the tremendous potential that the wood business has in the Middle East, Woodshow has boosted the confidence of the manufacturers and traders by initiating transactional sales during the show and also generating potential sales in the coming months. This event brought more business than expected, more quality than seen in the recent past, more representation of the region than anticipated, yes the Dubai international Wood & Wood Machinery Show 2009 was a very successful show and you had to be there to benefit from it.

Dubai Woodshow 2009, the largest & dedicated wood and wood machinery exhibition in the Middle East, successfully concluded another successful edition with more than 200 companies from 30 countries closing contracts at the show.

The success of the Dubai Woodshow 2009 has been the result of the stronger presence of international wood and wood working companies, who believed in the quality & importance of the show, which has continuously provided the show with the newest trade techniques, industry knowledge and innovative technologies. We are proud that our aim of providing value to our exhibitors by bringing in business for them across the region and afar Middle East borders has again been successfully fulfilled this year. The show saw specialized trade visitors from the region and afar.

“Once again, AHEC and its member companies found the Dubai Wood Show to be an excellent forum for the Middle East’s wood trade. At a time when market conditions are far from easy, the show provided an ideal platform for US hardwood exporters to make new contacts and network with existing ones.”

Roderick Wiles,
AHEC Consultant for International Markets.
