This edition of SAOGE had seen many more high profile figures including Lord Digby Jones, the former Minister of Trade and Industry for the UK and Dr Randy Gossen, President of the World Petroleum Council who had lauded the Kingdom for its efforts, and progress in this industry.

The Saudi Arabia International Oil & Gas Exhibition & Conference (SAOGE), the premier event for the Eastern Province in Saudi Arabia, was established in 2008 to meet the requirement for the largest oil producing country in the world to host its own focused oil and gas show. It provides the sole event in Saudi Arabia for the Oil & Gas industry, and the SAOGE exhibition is supported by a high profile conference programme, drawing on expertise from around the world, to present and discuss topics linked to the Oil & Gas Industry.

Following on from the success of the 2008 launch event which gathered 207 companies from 28 countries and 5608 visitors, the attendance for 2009 grew by 23% with 274 companies from around the world representing 31 countries. The figure for visitors this year also grew with 6,834 industry representatives visiting the exhibition.
